With Irish Home Rule Bill Introduced by Secretary Birrell.

Measure Confers But Little Self-Government Upon Ireland.

Nationalists to Declare Their Attitude at Convention in Dublin.

JOHN REDMUND DELAYS JUDGMENT

The Government Tuesday presented its long-awaited Irish bill to the House of Commons and to the country. This bill is designed to meet the demands for Irish home rule. It was presented by the Chief Secretary for Ireland, Mr. Birrell, to a crowded house. Prior to the appearance of this measure it was popularly termed a "devolution bill," but today it is referred to as the "Irish Council bill," or even the "Irish bill." Compared to the home rule bills of 1886 and 1906 the measure confers little self-government upon Ireland, merely giving to the Council control of the eight departments now managed by Government boards. Twenty-four members of the Council are to be appointed by the Crown, and while the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland is given power to nullify its measures, the Crown retains control of five of the eight departments, including constabulary. The control of this branch always has been a thorn in the flesh of the Irish people. It is natural and quite to be expected that this half-way measure is wholly pleasing to no political party.

The radicals are disappointed that the measure falls short of actual home rule, and the Irish members are even more disappointed with it. The Irish leaders, however, are maintaining a diplomatic attitude until they have time to study the provisions of the bill and learn the sentiment of the people. A national convention will be held in Dublin soon to decide upon the policy of the Irish party. The laborites will support the measure because they are all home rulers.

The floor of the house was packed and the galleries held a notable assemblage, including a number of peers, the visiting colonial Premier of Australia, and several Bishops. W. Bourke Cockran, of New York, was an interested spectator. Members of the Irish clergy were conspicuous in the galleries. Mr. Birrell rose to an oratorial height when he described the present system of Irish administration. He called Dublin Castle a failure, saying: "There it stands, remote, without a friend, and melancholy, while the current of Irish life sweeps past." No Governor had entered, he continued, "the gloomy portals of Dublin Castle without a sinking of the heart almost equivalent to abandoning home."

Nobbody, said Mr. Birrell, believed that the present system of the administration of Ireland was sound in principle or economical. It has been switched off from the great current of the national life of the people. Under the proposed new scheme the Irish members of Parliament would continue to sit at Westminster in undiminished numbers, but he hoped hereafter to find a more profitable channel for their energy in managing local affairs at home. It was the intention of the bill to establish a representative administrative Council, consisting of eighty-two elected and twenty-four nominated members, the latter to be nominated the first year by the King and thereafter by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

Elected members would be elected on the local Government Board franchise. The Under Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant would be ex-officio member of the council, which would have complete control of the powers vested in the departments to be handed over to its care. The President of the council would be appointed by the council itself, and the Chief Secretary would have the right to attend the meetings. If the existing officers of the departments were elected by the council they must be given full pensions.

Exercise of the power vested in the departments would be controlled by reason of the council, and the supremacy of the Imperial Parliament would be safeguarded by the power given to the Lord Lieutenant to reserve his consent to any results of the Council and eight departments, which would be made subject to the new council. The departments comprising under the control of the proposed Irish Council would be the local Government Board, Department of Agriculture, Congested Districts Board, Commissioners of Public Parks, National Education and Intermediate Education, Inspectors of the Reformatory and Industrial Schools and the Registrar-General. The Supreme Court Judicature, Royal Irish Constabulary, Dublin Metropolitan Police, the Land Commission and the Prisons Board would remain under the control of the imperial authorities. Under the bill peers and women could vote, and any subject would be able to hold the office of Lord Lieutenant without preference for any religious belief.

John Redmond, the Irish leader, said that until he and his colleagues had time to consider every feature of the bill and elicit Irish public opinion in regard to it, no one could expect him to give either deliberate or final judgment. Mr. Gladstone proposed to solve the problem by the full and frank concession of self-government and autonomy to the Irish people, but what the present Government offered was neither home rule nor a substitute for it. The Irish still demanded home rule, and rested the claim on their historic right and the admitted failure of a century of British government of Ireland.

As home rulers, Mr. Redmond thought they were justified in regarding the scheme as consistent with the maintenance of their aspirations, and he proceeded to apply certain tests to the scheme regarding giving general and effective control to Irish public opinion over the matters which the bill dealt with. He said that he did not like the nominated element.

INVENTED SEVERAL UNIQUE PHRASES

President Ben Sand kept things going Tuesday night at the meeting of Mackin Council, which was largely attended and very interesting. Two applications for membership were received. Regret was felt over the report that Messrs. Andrew Kast, William Klein, George Bartsch, Herman Holkamp, George Kruse and A. Baron were still sick.

A communication was read from Lambert Young Council at Frankfort, asking Mackin to support its candidate, Owen Carty, for Grand Secretary at the Owensboro convention. The election for Corresponding Secretary brought out a big vote and was declared in favor of Joe Hancock, who received a good majority. In acknowledging the honor he asserted that if backed by Mackin Council he could become Mayor of New Albany and Jeffersonville.

Louis Kieffer, reporting for the Entertainment Committee, announced every arrangement made for the comic opera to be given at the Mary Anderson Theater, and upon motion $30 was appropriated for the choral club.

Messrs. Sam Robertson, Charles Ralphy, James Shelley, Clarence Zook and William Kerberg were named as a reception committee for the joint debate tomorrow afternoon, which will be attended by the lady friends and members of the councils of the Falls Cities.

THE CIGARMAKERS' UNION

The Cigarmakers' Union this week presented the manufacturers with the new bill of prices, and are greatly pleased over the fact that all but six shops have signed. This is the only demand the members of the union have made since 1881, and it is thought that as soon as the stocks now on hand are depleted the manufacturers will call back their men and grant the increase, which is only $1 per thousand. The Louisville union is one of the strongest in the international body, with a membership of over 500. For years these men have devoted themselves to building up a big trade for their employers, many of whom have become rich in the business, and they therefore think that the time has arrived when they should receive a slight increase in wages. Under the administration of the union conditions have greatly improved and Louisville cigars have come to be recognized as the best made.

INVENTED SEVERAL UNIQUE PHRASES

There came to San Francisco a lit- tle more than forty years ago a sailor, tanned and toughened by years spent on the seas, unprepossessing in appearance, unknown and without education or money. Five years later this same sailor by his own efforts became a sheen force of character, to the leadership of an army of workingmen, he had gained a national reputation, and the political and financial kings of San Francisco spent many sleepless nights because of him. The sailor lad was Dennis Kearney, of Oakmount, County Cork, Ireland, who died two weeks ago at his home in Alameda of old age. At one time his death would have caused a revolution among the working classes of San Francisco, but only a few friends accompanied the body to the grave, and his passing away did not cause a ripple of excitement.

When Kearney was nine years old he left home and took to the sea. He sailed it many years and finally landed in America. He sailed from several Atlantic ports, among them Boston, and in 1868 came to San Francisco, but only a few friends accompanied the body to the grave, and his passing away did not cause a ripple of excitement.

He eventually became mate of this vessel at the age of nineteen. He followed the sea for some time thereafter and finally, in 1872, went into the drayage business in San Francisco. At that time the anti-Chinese movement had commenced and Kearney attended every meeting held to discuss the exclusion of Chinese. He entered with vigor and dash into the controversy and his fiery utterances attracted the attention of merchants who employed him.

He was a sort of boss drayman for the Custom House. Gradually the merchants stopped giving him work.

Kearney continued at the meetings and was up and down constantly, trying to make himself heard. His speeches were somewhat uncouth, as he had not been educated, and he could not express himself fluently.

He did have, though, a wonderful command of strong phrases that caught the workingmen. Chester H. Hull, a young newspaper man, who was reporting the meetings, became interested in this rugged character of the sea and took him in hand.

He realized that Kearney's fiery address and commanding manner contained great possibilities. Hull wrote several speeches for Kearney and the sailor-orator delivered them with great effect. Then followed the famous "Sand Lots" meetings, which were held in vacant ground on which the City Hall later was built. Kearney had a remarkable memory. He committed the longest speeches in a few hours, and would not vary a word from the text. In another time Kearney developed his oratory and became a powerful and convincing speaker on his own account.

He did not have to rely on his reporter friend for material. Then it was that he began to invent his unique phrases describing corrupt politicians and financiers. His chief theme was the Chinese question. With the curtain phrase, "The Chinese must go," as his motto, he hammered at this subject ten years, and he was the prime promotor of the Geary bill which exists to-day in the enacted law.

On October 29, 1877, Kearney held a large meeting on top of California street hill, where Leland Stanford, Charles Crocker and Mark Hopkins had elegant homes. In front of the unfinished house of Mr. Hopkins a large bonfire was built, and within the hearing of those millionaires Kearney addressed his followers, denouncing the capitalists. He declared he would march through the city with his followers and compel the politicians and financiers to give up their ill-gotten gains.

There are many in the East who remember Kearney as well as he is remembered in California. When he was at the zenith of his power he seemed to convert all the country to his belief, which was that labor should rule capital and that employers should be subservient to the workingman. During the Chinese agitation he was the most powerful champion of the exclusion movement.

It was he who invented the phrase, "The Chinese must go," and he coined words to describe the capitalist and employers who hired Chinese labor. The waning of his power came when he attempted to convert the East. He spoke in New York, at Cooper Institute, in 1887, and his denunciation of respectable capitalism was not received with favor, and the better class of laboring men refused to tolerate him.

In 1888 he addressed the House Committee on Foreign Affairs in advocacy of additional legislation to restrict Chinese immigration, exhibiting a map showing how low the Chinese were and whether in San Francisco and saying that 75,000 Chinese were then occupied the pioneer district of the city. On this occasion Kearney referred to Congressman Hitt, and said if Hitt did not withdraw his opposition he would stump his district to defeat him and would have his followers pelt him. Of recent years Kearney had been little heard of. Other men of keenest minds and better judgment took up his work and completed it. He had five children and became moderately wealthy. Two of his daughters went on the stage.

Bishop Morris Raises Three Young Men to the Priesthood.

Right Rev. Bishop John Morris, of Little Rock, Ark., who is one of the most distinguished Catholic prelates in America, officiated this week at the Cathedral of the Assumption in the ordination of three young Louisville priests, Father Crowe, Father Maloney and Father Norman, who have just finished their course of study for the priesthood at Preston Park Seminary. Bishop Morris conferred the minor degrees on the young priests Saturday morning, and also officiated when the degree of sub-deacon was conferred with impressive ceremonies. Monday morning he conferred the order of deacon, which raised the three young men to the holy priesthood.

Bishop Morris was the guest of Bishop McCloskey during his visit to Louisville. He is a graduate of St. Mary's College, Marion county, and was ordained into the priesthood by Bishop McCloskey.

CINCINNATI MAKES BIG PREPARATION

The sixteenth biennial convention of the Catholic Knights of America will be held in Cincinnati next week, and it promises to be the largest and most important Supreme Council meeting held since its foundation thirty-two years ago. Unlike many other fraternal insurance societies, the Catholic Knights have passed through the crisis and stand today the strongest organization of its kind. This gratifying condition is in large measure due to the zeal and earnestness displayed by President Gaudin and the Supreme officers, who gave the order the benefit of their long experience. The past year has been a most successful one, the membership having increased in nearly every State and Territory in the Union. All arrangements have been completed and Cincinnati is ready to receive its guests. Tonight Dr. J. A. Averdich and the Covington Knights will hold a reception for the visitors, the only time that could be given Kentucky for the purpose. The programme has been mapped out so that the regular business of the convention will not be interfered with to any extent. The committee, guided by experience gathered at preceding Supreme Councils, has wisely tempered pleasure with business. There are two features that are probably quite new at C. K. A. conventions, the one being the big initiation of over 100 new members, among them a number of ladies, on Tuesday night, and the other the visit to the St. Aloysius Orphanage in Bond Hill.

Headquarters have been established at the Hotel Havlin, and for Sunday the following will be the order: Annual communion at 7 o'clock in St. Mary church, and vespers attended by Hamilton county members in St. Paul church; after vespers general meeting, with addresses by Supreme officers and delegates.

Monday night there will be a reception at the Hotel Havlin, and Tuesday morning Pontifical Mass in St. Peter's Cathedral by Archbishop Henry Moeller; address by Most Rev. J. Glennon, D. D., Archbishop of St. Louis, and Spiritual Director of the order. Addresses of welcome by Hon. Edward J. Dempsey, Mayor of Cincinnati. Most Rev. Archbishops Glennon, of St. Louis, and Henry Moeller, of Cincinnati, will also address the convention. At 8 o'clock there will take place the joint initiation of 100 new members under new ritual, in Greenwood Hall.

Wednesday morning there will be a high mass of requiem for deceased members in St. Louis church. The afternoon will be devoted to a sightseeing trolley ride, winding up with a visit to St. Aloysius Orphanage. The social feature for Thursday will be the banquet, while the entire day Friday will be devoted to business. Saturday will be spent at the Zoological Gardens and miscellaneous entertainment. Two and three business sessions will be held each day.

Kentucky will be ably represented by Messrs. Reichert and Gleason, the former being a member of the Committee on Official Reports. While many amendments will be offered to the existing laws none of a radical nature will be adopted.

TWENTY YEARS BISHOP.

Last week the Right Rev. Patrick A. Ludden completed his twentieth year as Bishop of Syracuse. Under his administration that diocese increased its number of churches from forty-five to sixty-eight, and is now looked upon as in every way the equal of any in the Empire State. The most democratic of men, Bishop Ludden is with a ripe scholar and a close observer of movements and men. When one comes to know him well he is amazed at his intimate knowledge of events far and near, and at his faculty of instantaneous and accurate analysis. It is remarkable, and in this, as in other respects, no prelate in the country is his superior.

UNSATISFACTORY.

Secretary Birrell introduced his Irish home rule bill in the British Parliament on Tuesday and the best that can be said for it is that it is unsatisfactory and disappointing and not what the people of Ireland had reason to hope for. One good feature, however, is that it bars religious bias in the selection of the Lord Lieutenant, who wields great power. The opinion generally prevailing is expressed by Hon. Michael J. Ryan, National President of the United Irish League of America, who says:

"The terms of the Irish bill are disappointing and seem to be a 'far remove' from home rule. To intelligently discuss the measure, however, would require a full reading of it and an intimate knowledge of the complex system of government which afflicts Ireland. Her civil affairs are now managed by sixty-seven irresponsible and independent bureaus, many of them directed by sub-clerks from London department offices, thus making her, as Lord Dufferin said, the highest taxed and the worst-governed land in the world. The concentration of many of these 'bureaus,' as seemingly provided by the bill, would undoubtedly be advantageous, but the whole measure will be passed at the national convention of the Irish people, which has been summoned to meet in Dublin on May 21, and they are on the ground and know best their needs. Ireland will then accept or reject it—but, if accepted, it can only be as a step forward. It is unfortunate that England could not measure up at least to the heights reached by Gladstone. It would be vastly better for England if Ireland occupied toward her the position of Canada, Australia, the Cape Colony or the Transvaal, as the denial of the justice of self-government will only rekindle the fires of Irish hatred throughout the world from every point of view—a result to be deplored."

NOT A FAIR DEAL.

The refusal of Governor Beckham to reappoint Magistrate Patrick T. Sullivan to his office, after being reprimanded and petitioned by nearly every prominent Democrat and court official in this district, looks like a direct slap to not only the party here but to the many friends of Squire Sullivan, and especially the voters in his district, as any one at all familiar with the situation here knows that the Governor's appointee or any one else in that district has one chance in a hundred to defeat Squire Sullivan in the election which will be held next November.

Another point we make is this: By what process of reasoning does Gov. Beckham figure that the public here is willing to leave its choice for public officials in the hands of Dr. Carter Helm Jones, Rev. J. Lyons, Rev. Dr. Walter and Rev. M. P. Hunt (of A. P. A. fame), four Protestant ministers of the gospel? We seriously object to such selections being left to a committee like the above. If the Governor cares no more for Democratic opinion here than that, we suggest that our Representatives and Senators support ex-Gov. Bradley, the Republican choice for Senator, who at least is liberal and fair-minded in his views.

LOOKS FOR PANIC.

If an industrial crisis is on the slate it will, in all probability, not come before 1913. That would seem an appropriate year. In England there is a panic about every ten years, in the United States every twenty years. The foregoing prediction comes from Joseph French Johnson, dean of the school of commerce of the New York University, who reasons thus: "During the last ten years prices have risen 42 per cent, while the amount of money has increased 70 per cent. During that same time the national banks have increased their loans and discounts 115 per cent. Meantime the reserves have been reduced from 19 per cent to 13 per cent. Wages have not gone up as rapidly as prices have risen, and therefore an increase in wages should be made. If people are to purchase goods at rising prices they must have higher wages. I do not say that from any humanitarian motive, but from the knowledge of the cold fact that if prosperity is to increase we must give some of the money earned to the common people." If an industrial crisis does occur it will, he thinks, be like that of 1857, from the effects of which the country recovered almost completely within a year.

HIBERNIANS.What They Have Been Doing
the Past Week—General
News Notes.

Division 2 had a good meeting on Friday night of last week.

Divisions 2 and 8 of St. Paul are having large accessions to their ranks.

There was a decided improvement in the attendance at the meeting of Division 1 this week.

This same next year all will be busy in this city preparing for the Kentucky State convention.

Prof. Rohan, of Marquette College, has consented to address the Ladies' Auxiliary in Milwaukee on May 27.

Minnesota Hibernians expect to have 4,000 men in line at the dedication of the St. Paul Cathedral on June 2.

That will be a pleasing entertainment for the ladies at the meeting of Division 3 next Thursday night. Try not to miss it.

The County Board will not meet until the return of President Murphy. Then action will be taken looking to the annual celebration.

There was a large attendance and a very enjoyable evening was spent when Division 1 of Barre, Vt., gave a reception in the Knights of Columbus Hall in honor of the newly formed ladies' auxiliary.

Division 1 of Yonkers, N. Y., held a special meeting last week to work the degrees upon eight new members. Major Gilgar, of the Irish Volunteers and a State officer of the order, delivered an address and a couple of hours were spent socially.

Division 2 of Lowell, Mass., has been honored by having three of its members, Hon. John Donovan, Hon. Jeremiah Crowley and Hon. James Casey, elected Mayor of that city. The last named has the proud distinction of being the youngest Mayor in the United States during his term of office.

State and county officers have plans made for the largest parade ever held by a single organization in New Haven. One of the county officers says that of the 9,500 members in Connecticut at least 7,000 will participate. When the State convention was held in Hartford last year fully 75,000 people were attracted to the city to witness the parade.

AMUSEMENTS.

Miss Maude Adams comes next to Macaulay's for an engagement of three nights and Saturday matinee, beginning Thursday, presenting "Peter Pan," in which she has achieved her greatest success. This is assuredly one of the best attractions seen here during the entire season.

LOOKED AT AS MENACE.

Books that mock at religion are classified as a menace to Christianity by Monsignor Bruchesi, Archbishop of Montreal, who has formally protested to the city authorities against their admission to the public library.

FATHER CAMPBELL COMING.

The Very Rev. Father Campbell, S. J., of Glasgow, is shortly leaving Scotland on a Gaelic mission to the Catholic Gaelic speaking Gaels of Canada, of which it is estimated there are above 200,000 in that country. It is thought he will also visit some of the larger cities in the United States before returning to Scotland.

METHODIST EXECUTORS.

Six executors of the Methodist faith and two shrewd lawyers of Iowa City have just finished administering an estate of $8,000 that was settled to a score of Catholic priests. This eccentric will was made by William Gallagher, of Franklin county, Iowa, who died a bachelor and provided in his will that his estate should go to twenty Catholic priests in various parts of the country and six Methodists were named as executors of the will. These executors called in two attorneys to help them settle the estate and $4,000, the net amount of the estate, has been given to six of the legatees. The estate amounted to $7,831, and after paying debts, etc., $4,900 was left. The executors' fees amounted to $216 and the lawyers' fees to $630.

MOST UNLUCKY MAN.

J. M. Scanlan, a well known writer of San Francisco, poses as the most unlucky man in the Pacific coast. He has established thirteen dailies and weeklies in California that have failed. He says that every check he receives either is unsigned or undated. The one unlucky event of his life occurred while he was a private in the Confederate army. While kneeling behind a low earthwork a cannon ball struck the top of the embankment, covering him with dirt and debris. "If I had been an upright young man I would have been killed," he reported, saluting his superior officer. Friday he regards with much suspicion.

firearm ever invented. As tested by ordinance experts it has a range of five miles, will shoot a bullet through the bodies of fifty-five men with the nearest man fifty-three feet away, and at a distance of nearly one mile it will hurl its projectile through the bodies of six men. It is six inches shorter than the Krag-Jorgensen, weighs nearly a pound less, and it requires but a second or so to fix bayonets.

MORE LAUGHTER, LESS SUICIDES.

The physiological benefits of laughter can not be overestimated. It shakes up the diaphragm, sets the pulses beating to a lively measure, stimulates the blood corpuscles, enlivens the brain and sometimes produces dislocation of the jaw when indulged in too heartily by a man with a large mouth. Used with discretion, laughter is as inspiring as a sea breeze, as refreshing as an August shower. Its moral effect is beyond computation. It has killed more ridiculous superstitions by its rollicking roar of unbelief than any other agency. What can be more derisive than a laugh? The man who laughs never kills himself. This is the reason so few Irishmen commit suicide.

IN EVEN EXCHANGE FOR THE OLDEST PIANO THAT IS NOW IN ACTUAL USE IN LOUISVILLE, NEW ALBANY OR JEFFERSONSVILLE.

OUR REASON.
We are desirous of obtaining the oldest Piano that is in actual use in either of the three Falls Cities, for exhibition and advertising purposes, and in order to secure it we make this above liberal offer. It costs you absolutely nothing to enter your Piano in this contest.

THIS IS ALL YOU WILL HAVE TO DO—READ CAREFULLY.

First—Any Piano, whether it be grand, square or upright is eligible. Second—but it must be in actual use. No Piano that has been stored away can be entered. For the benefit of dealers we are in possession of data that will enable us to some extent to judge by the number and name of each piano we find in actual use. We will order that no mistake will be made, we will send out an experienced representative to examine every piano that in our estimation appears to be the oldest. Price of names of two or more pianos are sent in and each appears to be very old. Price of names of two or more pianos are sent in and each appears to be very old. "QUICK MEAL" GAS RANGES

For many years the "Quick Meal" has been universally acknowledged as the best gas range in the market. They cook quickly, bake excellently and on account of their patent air burners consume less gas than any other. They are more easily cleaned and are made to last. The new improvement this year will keep it in the front rank. Having made our 1907 contract before the advance in prices of all iron goods we are able to sell at old prices.

WILL CONSIDER BILL.Nationalists to Hold a Great Convention in Dublin
May 21-22.

The Nationalists have called a great convention to be held in Dublin May 21 and 22 to consider the Government bill. All the Irish city corporations and the borough and city rural councils have been invited to send delegates irrespective of politics. The branches of the United Irish League in Ireland and England also will be represented, and all the clergymen of Ireland, irrespective of denomination, will be ex-officio delegates.

John E. Redmond, as leader of the Nationalists, will set forth Mr. Birrell's proposed bill, and ask the convention to pass its opinion thereupon for the guidance of the Irish members of Parliament. Thomas W. Russell, Liberal member for the southern division of Tyrone, expressed the conviction that there had been a change of opinion, and that the mass of the population of Ulster would be found supporting the measure, which he said had excited the opposition of the Ulster Unionists because they feared it would put an end to their reign of patronage. R. Barry, Solicitor General for Ireland, repudiated the suggestion that there had been a private treaty with the Nationalists in respect to this bill.

MAGIC VENEER GLOSS.

In another column we call attention to magic veneer gloss, manufactured in this city at 518 Third street, which has sprung into great popularity and is being used in homes and offices throughout the city with the most successful results. This gloss puts new life in old furniture and fixtures and makes them look like new and last many years longer. It cleans, polishes and veneers metals, hardwoods, furniture, office fixtures, musical instruments, automobiles, carriages, bicycles, etc. In fact it will put a brilliant finish on any article of wood or metal that has a varnished, japanned or enameled surface, renewing and increasing its original brilliancy and newness with but little labor. Our readers will find it all that is represented.

ANNUAL COMMUNION.

Branch 25, C. K. of A., has set Pentecost Sunday, May 19, for the annual communion of the members. They will attend St. John's church, Clay and Walnut, and receive in a body. This is a constitutional requirement and the officers will see that it is carried out to the letter. Monday night an interesting meeting was held, when another certificate was issued. This branch is making satisfactory progress under the administration of Messrs. Meehan, Mann and Hill.

WILL CAST LARGE VOTE.

An interesting popularity contest is on between three ladies and three gentlemen, all associated with the popular Pastime Drill Company, and will continue until May 30, when the vote will be counted and the result announced at the company reception and dance to be given at Nadon's Hall, Eleventh and Kentucky streets, the location for which are now being issued. The Pastimes have a reputation as entertainers, and will leave nothing undone to make this their banner social event.

THE WHITE CITY.

When the weather permitted this week the White City was visited by large crowds who came away delighted with the many attractions and music provided for their entertainment. Everything is now in perfect working order and those who go there next week will be agreeably surprised. Weber's Prize Band makes its appearance tomorrow and will play at the White City every afternoon and evening during the week. Weber's Band is a collection of soloists who merely play but who interpret music, and is one that may invite comparison with any that has ever been heard in America.

FOX RIDGE TEAM.

The Fox Ridge baseball team has organized with the following line up and will open up the Junior League season this afternoon with the White City team: Score, c.; Duvall or beeler, p.; J. Foley, 1b.; E. Hanrahan, 2b.; M. Foley, s.s.; E. Wolfe, 3b.; J. Hines, l.f.; B. Flynn, c.f.; L. Meil-
